The Ax.
The ax is a chopping tool. Chickens, as a rule, get the ax in the neck. The prize ax of the country is owned by a man named Maxwell. An ax is a good thing to get the better of a boarding house steak. It is customary to ax your girl before taking on a marriage license. President Cleveland has been referred to as the greatest axhead in the history of politics. In Gladstone's hallway at Hawarden Castle there is always an ax alongside the cane rack. Governor Pattison buys axes by the gross, and has already used up about 337 this session vetoing bills. Paradoxical though it may appear, there are more people in this world with axes to grind than there are axes. The courts have decided that a man is justified in taking the ax to the fellow who asks: "Are you going to the fair?" It was with a little ax that George Washington early in life destroyed whatever opportunity he had of becoming a distinguished liar. The ax plays an important part in newspaper work. Sometimes it is swung to kill a reporter's copy and occasionally to kill the reporter himself.

MAX BE A STRIKE

Trouble on the New Jersey Central Road Over Wages and Time.
New York, June 1.—J. Rogers Maxwell, president of the Central railroad of New Jersey, in regard to the demands for increased wages made by the company's employees, is not inclined to outline the course the company will pursue, but stated that an answer will be made to the grievance committee, which represented the men, in about a week.

As far as the demand itself is concerned, Mr. Maxwell said that it was made in the proper form, and with no evidence of hostility, but the wages paid by the Central are as high as those paid by other roads, he believed, and no valid reasons were advanced by the committee why there should be an increase. The president would not say what his answers to the men would be, but he felt confident there would be no strike in any event.

On the part of the employees it is said that they will strike if their request for shorter hours and increased wages is not granted. But it was found difficult to confirm this, as the men themselves decline to discuss the subject until the result of the visit to Mr. Maxwell is made known.

ANNUAL POLICE PARADE.

New York City's "Finest" Cheered as They Marched the Streets.

New York, June 1.—The annual parade of the Metropolitan police force took place yesterday afternoon. The day was well adapted for the parade, the bright sun being well tempered by a fair breeze from the southeast.

The men formed at the Battery and marched up Broadway to Twenty-third street, thence to Madison avenue, to Forty-first street to Fifth avenue, and down the avenue past the reviewing stand, where the Mayor, city officials and the Intendant Eulalia reviewed them.

The parade began to move shortly after 1 o'clock. Superintendent Byrne, mounted on a spirited horse, was at the head, followed immediately by the mounted police. The superintendent was loudly cheered all along the line of march, which was packed with people.

The men presented a fine appearance in their new uniforms and, indeed, well maintained the reputation of the "finest police in the world."

The parade was made up of six divisions, or battalions, each including ten companies. An inspector or captain commanded each division, which was headed by a brass band.

There were about 2,500 men in line.

THE ENGLISH DERBY.

The Bay Colt Isinglass Won the Race and $5,000.

LONDON, June 1.—The great Derby race at Epsom was won by Mr. McCalmont's bay colt Isinglass. Isinglass is a bay colt by Isomony, out of Denlock, and won the two thousand guinea race at Newmarket this month. In the Derby Mr. Rose's colt Ravensbury, by Isomony, out of Penitence, was second, and the Duke of Portland's bay colt Raeburn, by St. Simon, out of Mowrina, was third. Eleven horses started in the race.

The Derby is a race for 3,000 sovereigns, the winner to receive 5,000 sovereigns, the nominator of the winner 500 sovereigns, and the owner of the second 300 sovereigns, and the owner of the third 200 sovereigns out of the race; for 3-year olds. Course, about one mile and a half.

POOL SELLERS RELEASED.

Their Offences Proved to Have Been Committed Prior to Passage of the Law.

New York, June 1.—Twelve alleged pool sellers, who were arrested in March last, during the police raid upon pool rooms throughout the city, were brought up for trial in Special Sessions and released. Lawyer Hummel appeared for the accused, and in cross-examining witnesses, elicited the fact that in each case the accused had exacted a fee of ten cents to pay for telegraphing the bet to the race track.

All of the men were acquitted, as the offense was committed prior to the passage of the law which makes it a felony to receive orders for bets even when a commission is exacted.

BELIEVED SEVERAL WERE LOST.

Fears of a Drowning Accident Off College Point, L. I.

COLLEGE POINT, L. I., June 1.—Fears are entertained here that several persons were drowned last night in Long Island Sound off this place. Cries of distress were heard on the water about 8 o'clock by several boatmen who tried to locate the vessel, but were unsuccessful on account of a heavy wind which was blowing at the time and the darkness.

A sailboat, bottom side up, was seen floating in the sound near here, and it is supposed the cries came from the occupants of this boat, none of whom has been heard from.

The Comptroller Must Show Cause.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—In special term here to-day Judge Herrick issued an order requiring the comptroller of New York to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt in not complying with the provisions of a writ of peremptory mandamus issued at the last special term requiring him to pay certain back taxes due the state from New York county. The order is returnable before Judge Herrick the last Tuesday in June.

Going to Chicago in a Freight Car.
BORDENTOWN, N. J., June 1.—A large freight car is being fitted up for twelve young men who propose spending two weeks at the Columbian Exposition. The car will contain sleeping bunks, a cooking range and a well-stocked larder. It will be attached to fast freight trains. The estimated cost of the round trip is only ten dollars a head.

A New Steamship Line.
OTTAWA, Ont., June 1.—It is understood that cable communications have passed between the government of Canada and those of the different Australian colonies with a view to united action in the matter of a new direct steamship line between Sydney and Vancouver. The steamers have been chartered for the route.

Escaped From Jail.
KALAMAZOO, Mich., June 1.—George Saunders, a confidence man awaiting trial, Gallagher and Jones, taken in Ohio for train robbery, and Allan, a suspect, escaped from jail here last night. The sheriff had given them the liberty of the corridor and they took advantage of it to release themselves.

The Break Still Widening.
ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., June 1.—The break in front of the Fair Place, thirteen miles above here, is still widening. It is now over 700 feet wide. The outlook is that about all the territory of the Texas district reached by the flood of last year will be flooded. It is already over the Missouri Pacific track.

First Watermelons of the Season.
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 1.—R. R. Price, of the Central railroad of Georgia, shipped from Grand Island, Fla., yesterday, the first car load of watermelons of the season of 1893. It is consigned to Cincinnati and is routed via Albany, Ga., and Cincinnati Southern railroad.

Shipwrecked Sailors at New York.
New York, June 1.—Fifteen of the crew of the Hamburg-American Packet Company's steamship Wandram which went ashore on Apple Island in the St. Lawrence river while en route from Hamburg to Montreal on May 15 last have arrived here to-day.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 1.—The taking of testimony was begun at noon in the trial of Alderman McKee, charged with aiding and abetting in the presentation of a false and fraudulent bill to the city, and also for aiding in causing the same to be allowed by the Common Council.

A True Ghost Story.

X—, an occasional journalist and a familiar figure on the boulevard, had been fairly pestered by his numerous creditors since the beginning of the year. How was he to get rid of them? The inspiration of a genius germinated in his fertile brain. He started off to the country and wired a message to the Paris papers announcing his own death. The newspapers paid a tribute of respect to his talents, a few friends shed a tear over his youth, the shopkeepers entered his unpaid bills among the profit and loss accounts. But, behold, a couple of days ago one of the latter—and not the most accommodating of the lot—met our Bohemian strutting along the boulevards.

"What?" exclaimed the staid creditor, "I thought you were at the cemetery?"

"You're about right," replied X—, with a doleful air. "I have been there for a month, more or less. Only, as it was very fine this morning, the keeper allowed me to come out, but I have promised to be back before 6 o'clock. I wish you good afternoon." X— disappeared like a phantom, and his creditor has not yet recovered from his stupefaction.—Agenda Printemps.

The Actinometer.

An apparatus for the measurement of actinism promises to be of great service to astronomers, as it will be specially valuable in examining the luminosity of the sky in diffused light. The apparatus presents some interesting features from an electrical point of view. It consists essentially of two plates of oxidized copper immersed in water containing one one-thousandth of either chloride, iodide or bromide of sodium. One of the plates is exposed to the action of the rays of light, while the other is protected from this action either by surrounding it with parchment or paper, or by placing it directly behind the first plate at a distance of about a millimeter. The action of the light is instantaneous, and although the sensitiveness of the element decreases rapidly at first, it soon becomes virtually constant. It will thus be seen that the electromotive force of the apparatus is the phenomenon upon which determinations depend. This varies with the color of the light which acts upon it.

American Seed Farms.

During the harvesting time for general farmers the seedfields present a most desirable sight. Rich, luscious melons, such as never appear in market, may be scattered over hundreds of acres of land in bewildering numbers, or fine green cabbage, lettuce or other vegetables may produce a mass of foliage that clothes the landscape in rich colors.

The cultivators go through the fields at this time and pull up all the poorly matured plants, leaving only the most perfect ones to go to seed. A few more weeks and the green heads turn yellow and brown. Seed pods and stalks shoot up from the heads of green, and the plants have to be watched every day to ascertain the proper time for harvesting them.

When the time arrives, laborers are sent into the fields in companies, and in the course of a few days or weeks all of the seed pods are collected and carried to the barn made purposely for their reception.

Pumpkins, watermelons and cucumbers are loaded upon carts and taken to the seed separators, where they are crushed to pieces and the seeds separated and dried. The onions, cabbages, lettuce, peas and beans produce their seeds in pods or balls, and these are gathered in the field by men and women, who clip off the narrow stalks and throw them into baskets or bags. The pods are allowed to dry in the sun, and then the seeds are separated from them by machinery, handwork or by threshing. The bars are divided into seed bins and rooms, and all of the seeds are collected here to be stored away until ready for shipment.

Some of the seedhouses have the seeds put up in packages right in the barn, while others have them shipped to their city warehouse in bulk. One seed farm will send off several carloads of seed in one season, while the leaves and stalks of the plants left in the fields can often be sold for fodder or some other purpose.

FINE DRESS GOODS

DRESS GOODS is such a bewildering topic that we will not attempt a full description, but give a partial outline, which you can fill in by a personal inspection. There are the plain and changeable diagonals; plain, plaid, striped and invisible plaid serges; fancy mixtures in all sorts of odd weaves, dots, threads, cross-threads, hair-lines, lines here and there, many at a glance appearing alike, but upon examination are found entirely different. Our assortment of silks is complete—china silks, china surah, plain surah, bengaline, plain, figured and changeable silks, in all the new shot effects. Full line of fancy braids to match any color of dress goods.

...In Wraps

We find the most stylish and the prevailing mode to be the Cape, in some of its variations. Some are plain, others very highly decorated, with fancy indecent birds, butterfly colors, or some full arrangement at the neck, so much approved this season by the feminine fancy. To some, coats only are the correct garment. To those we would say coats are equally fashionable and stylish, many of these having capes also attached—sometimes one, two or three, as the taste or inclination of the wearer may desire.

We have this season, for the first time, added a Millinery Department, and have spared neither trouble nor expense to make it a success. The result exceeds our most sanguine expectations. This department will be under the same management and conducted on the same principles that have always characterized our entire business. We shall keep everything in trimmed and untrimmed hats, novelties of every description. Having secured a trimmer noted for her artistic and skillful work, we are enabled to suit all tastes. We invite a careful inspection of our entire store. All welcome.
